Set Up the Extension

Go to the Chrome Web Store and search for Screencastify. Use a Google account to sign up.

If the Screencastify logo does not automatically appear in your extension bar, then pin it by using the puzzle piece by your account profile.

*Accept the permissions: Chrome will ask for a few permissions for the extension to run optimally. In a nutshell, these permissions allow us to create a folder in your Google Drive account entitled "Screencastify", access your webcam and microphone, record your screen, and display our annotation tools.

Record a Video: Recording Options

1. Record your browser tab: This option is perfect if you only want to show your viewers what's happening on one specific tab in Chrome. We use this option most when we want to record over a Google Slides presentation, for example.

2. Record your desktop: Use this option when you want to show your viewer something outside Chrome (like a PowerPoint) or if you think you'll switch between multiple tabs and/or programs.

3. Record your webcam: This option is perfect when you just want to speak directly to students, no screen involved.

The screenshot shows the Screencastify Unlimited interface. At the top is a red navigation bar with a menu icon, a play button, a bell, and a settings gear. Below this is the 'Screencastify Unlimited' logo. Three main recording options are presented: 'Browser Tab' (selected), 'Desktop', and 'Webcam Only'. Below these are settings for 'Microphone' (set to 'Default - In...') and 'Embed Webcam' (set to 'Integrated ...'). A 'Hide options' link is visible. Further down, there are settings for 'Countdown' (set to '3 seconds'), 'Show Drawing Tools', and 'Tab Audio'. A large blue 'Record' button is at the bottom.
